Comments on the annual meeting:

Canadian Journal of Plant Science: Associate Editor / Reviewer

The Canadian Journal of Plant Science (CJPS) appoints some new Associate Editors (AEs) every year, drawn from the membership of CSA (and CSHS). Each AE handles about 7 papers per year. It is a good way to contribute to your discipline, to get to know scientists you might not otherwise meet, and it adds to your resume. Are you interested in becoming an Associate Editor for CJPS?

- Yes, I am interested in becoming an Associate Editor for CJPS.
 No, I am not interested in becoming an Associate Editor for CJPS.

Similarly, CJPS needs reviewers. Every scientist who publishes in peer reviewed journals should expect to review 3-5 papers for every paper they write. If asked, would you serve as a reviewer for CJPS?

- Yes, I am interested in reviewing papers for CJPS.
 No, I am not interested in reviewing papers for CJPS.

Please give some keywords for the subjects for papers you'd like to review [~80 characters]
